

interior design TODAY

BRITAIN'S OLDEST MAGAZINE FOR PROFESSIONAL INTERIOR DESIGNERS

MARCH 2017

Craven Dunnill
FINE CERAMIC TILES

Excellence in tiles for today's interiors

101 MARCH 2017 £3.99

KITCHEN SPOTLIGHT

The kitchen of this impressive stucco fronted property in Belsize Park would have formed the reception room when originally built. As a result, it benefits from impressively high ceilings of 3.8m and beautifully ornate cornicing and a ceiling rose, together with a fireplace as the central feature. The client wished to adapt this stately room into a large kitchen and dining area to suit their lifestyle yet still allow this space to feel like a room and not specifically like a kitchen. In addition they wanted to incorporate their love of modern materials like metal, timber and marble into the space whilst ensuring that it functions efficiently. The natural progress for Roselind Wilson Design was to allow for a banquette seating area in the beautiful bay window. This would maximise the seating space and allow for a stunning oval marble table set against a strong black and white striped fabric for the bespoke bench. www.roselindwilsondesign.com
 Images courtesy of Richard Waites.