

INTERIOR DESIGN YEARBOOK 2015

WRITERS INCLUDE:

ANNA-GRACE DAVIDTSON

CHRISTOPHER JENNER

NATALIA MIYAR

SALLY STOREY

EDITED BY JADE TILLEY

Published in association with the British Institute of Interior Design

UK CONSUMER EDITION £8.95

WELCOME TO THE BROMPTONS

In the picturesque setting of Rose Square on the Fulham Road, the former 1844 Brompton Hospital now features as beautifully appointed apartments surrounded by gardens. Roselind Wilson was called upon to refurbish a three-bedroom duplex apartment on the second and third floor of The Bromptons. The entire property was gutted to allow for a full refurbishment to include the spatial layout and every finish. The kitchen allowed for up to date Gaggenau appliances, which were set against bespoke base and tall units in a grained timber and wall units in gloss lacquer. This was all brought together by the muted quartz composite worktop and Palisandro Nuvolato marble splashback emanating an understated glimmer that is reflective of the design itself. The sitting/dining room was carefully designed to allow for a six to eight seat dining table as well as sufficient seating allowing the client to sit and watch television comfortably from bespoke armchairs. All furnishings within the space were designed by Roselind Wilson Design and manufactured in stunning Madrona burr and grey ash timbers with bronze metal detailing.

*Rose Square, Fulham Road, was designed by Roselind Wilson Design and completed in April 2014.
Photography by Richard Waite.*

